

Mystery Story

One day I woke up and saw that something was wrong. My room was messed up. Wall lights on my wall were broken and my footstool was placed on my long, wide window sill. The curtains hanging on the curtain rail were all torn up. I was terribly scared and called the police, who called the forensic team. They arrived very quickly and I told them, I was probably sleeping very hard, because I didn't hear the execution of the crime, which took place in my room. The forensics looked around my room and saw that the box on my coffee table with the jewelry was empty. They also found fingerprints on my armchair and sideboard and dirty footprints on my floorboards. After taking the sample, the perpetrator was revealed. This man was a well known criminal, so when he was put in jail immediately. I was in shock but everything ended well because the apartment in my house was insured.
